Election was quiet in Wilmington

The 1984 presidential election in Wilmington was remarkably quiet. Two precincts voted at the Town Hall, the former Glen Road School. The four others cast ballots in the High School. Patrolman Jim Cuoco, who has covered the Presidential voting in Wilmington for 20 years, found it to be the most peaceful election ever.

There were, he reports, absolutely no arguments, nor were there any questions about parking. The only time the parking lot neared a full state was at the time the high school soccer game ended, at 3:45 p.m.

From 7:45 to 8 p.m. when the polls closed there were no more than 10 voters lined up to vote.

Four years ago, when two precincts voted at the North Intermediate School, 8097 persons voted, out of a list of 8760 registered voters. The voter percentage was 83.7 percent.

This year, with two precincts voting in the former Glen Road School, 8030 persons voted, out of a list of 10,053 registered voters. The voter percentage was 79.8 percent.

Damaged by train

Three bridges closed indefinitely

Three railroad bridges in Wilmington were closed on Monday after they were damaged by an oversized load on a freight train. The bridges are expected to be closed for several months, until repairs are completed.

The Wilmington bridges closed are on Eames Street, Butters Row and Lake Street. Four other Wilmington bridges crossing the New Hampshire Division of the Boston & Maine Railroad were not damaged.

Other bridges are in Woburn, and Billerica. A total of 11 bridges were hit, and six were closed.

The 120 car train had traveled from New York on the Boston and Maine without any problems until it left Lowell, shortly after noon Monday.

Dennis Coffey of the B&M said the damage was caused by a container on the 104th car of the train. Because the train was so long, the crew did not realize that the container was hitting the bridges. The container was being transported from California to Cambridge.

Two of the bridges — Lake Street and Butters Row — in the Wilmington had been restrung about four years ago, when the entire line was rebuilt. The rebuilding was to allow trains with "high and wide" loads to have access to Boston, since the Concord Division was being disrupted by construction of the MBTA Red Line in Cambridge and Somerville. At that time, the bridges were raised and the tracks were lowered to supposedly provide adequate clearance.

The bridges, though, are still wooden bridges, more suitable for horses than modern traffic. When the Boston and Lowell Railroad was built in the 1850's, bridges were built at every crossing, to avoid grade crossing accidents such as had occurred on earlier railroads.

The Lake Street bridge, though, is a steel structure known as a "Bailey Bridge." It was put in place about five years ago after vandals had burned the old wooden bridge.

Recently, State Rep. Jim Miceli has arranged for the state to build a new bridge on Lake Street. The Mass. Dept. of Public Works has scheduled a hearing for Tues., Nov. 27 for public input on construction of the new bridge. The hearing will be held at the Wilmington Memorial Library at 7:30 p.m.

Repairs on the other bridges are expected involve the replacement of split timbers. None of the bridges collapsed when hit, but were "creased" by the container, breaking or splitting timbers.

Rift continues between Ristuccia, officials

Though a week has passed since last Monday's heated selectmen's meeting, the Wilmington Ice Arena is no nearer completion than before. According to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, no plans of any kind have been submitted, as of 4 p.m. Monday afternoon.

In telephone interviews with developer Bernard Ristuccia and arena architect Daniel Tully, most of the reason became clear.

Ristuccia had the floor plan ready to submit at last Monday's meeting, but was told he had to turn in a more complete plan, including plumbing and exit specifications. He said he intends to comply with this request as soon as possible.

Architect Tully and three of his men are presently working on the plan and have been instructed to turn it over upon completion. According to Tully, he also collected all necessary documents, such as the structural affidavit, application for a building permit, building code forms, and a planning board application from the building department last Tuesday.

These forms are now being put into the proper shape so that they will be received by the various boards "without question or challenge." He emphasized that the whole process is routine, with nothing to be concerned about.

Since he had been away from his office for the past five days, Tully said he hasn't had time to look at the plan and documents. Therefore, he couldn't project a time when the plan would be complete or the forms would be turned in.

Ristuccia offers a slightly different point of view. He feels sure the planning board and building inspector won't give him a "permit of any kind." He claims Building Inspector Charles Lawrenson won't accept any applications until certain illegalities with the Subaru and AMC dealerships are cleared up. According to Ristuccia, the town engineer is after him to change the entrance to his Subaru dealership, and certain signs on his property need to be taken down as they are against zoning regulations.

"With this kind of small potatoes," Ristuccia added, he's not sure if he's interested in doing anything anymore.

When asked why he didn't show up at last Tuesday's planning board meeting as was expected, he stated vehemently that he won't go before the board "as long as that man (board chairman Tony Gentile) is in charge."

He explained that he really didn't want any special favors and, if it were in his power, the arena would have been started already. In the end, he added, the future of the arena depends on the town.

Beckwith wins 21st District, Buell takes 64 percent

Precinct Three in Wilmington almost had a Republican state representative. The vote in the 21st Middlesex District was very close. Democrat Geoffrey Beckwith of Reading squeaked by with a margin of 257 votes. The total for the district was 9554 votes for Beckwith, to 9257 for Republican David Leavitt. Leavitt, though, carried Reading, 6123 to 5890.

State Senator Bob Buell of Boxford waltzed to victory, taking 64 percent of the total for his district. He tallied 44,972 to 25,349 for Democrat William Squillace. Squillace won in Gloucester by 1200 votes, but did not carry any other communities. The First Essex and Middlesex District runs from Essex to Wilmington, and includes many small Essex County towns.

Bicycle accident claims life of 13-year-old boy

An accident involving a bicycle and a truck claimed the life of 13-year-old Jason Maaser of 1118 Livingston St., Tewksbury last Thursday.

Maaser, the son of Joseph and Linda Maaser, died at St. John's Hospital in Lowell at 6:15 p.m. Thursday, November 1 after undergoing surgery for internal abdominal injuries suffered when the bicycle he was riding hit the passenger side of a pick-up truck on North Street earlier that day, according to reports.

The accident occurred when the bicycle Maaser was riding hit the side of a pick-up truck entering the Patten Green Condominium construction site on North Street at 3:20 p.m. Maaser was traveling on the sidewalk headed toward the North Street School when the truck, traveling in the same direction, made a right hand turn onto Quill Run, the major street in the complex.

According to investigating Officer Alan Landers, 3 to 5 feet of skid marks were left on the sidewalk when Maaser tried to stop the bicycle before hitting the utility type pick-up truck which was equipped with tool compartments on either side of the bed.

The driver of the 1978 Ford pick-up truck, Alan T. Schultz, 24, of Chandler St., Tewksbury, told Landers he did not see the boy on the sidewalk before making the turn and that he stopped the truck after hearing a loud bang.

A passenger in the truck, Stephen Von Kahle, told Landers he got out of the truck and asked Maaser if he were okay. Von Kahle also told Landers that Maaser was on his feet and reported he felt alright.

But, Maaser complained moments later that he was having trouble breathing and was told to sit down, Von Kahle told Landers.

Emergency Medical Technicians treated Maaser at the scene before rushing him to St. John's Hospital.

Landers said that there was little evidence at the scene to suggest the truck was traveling at an unreasonable speed before the accident, but added the case is still under investigation.

A funeral service was held for Maaser Monday and a moment of silence for the eighth grade student was observed Friday at Tewksbury Junior High School where Maaser was an above average student.

An active member of the Tewksbury Youth Soccer

League and former Cub Scott and Boy Scout with Troop 41 of North Tewksbury Maaser leaves two sisters, Alicia and Melissa, grandparents and several aunts and uncles.

Woman seeks to build after discovering taxes went for land that wasn't there

Carol Paczkowski has a problem and she is bringing it to the attention of the Tewksbury Board of Appeals. It appears that she has been paying taxes on non-existent land in Tewksbury. The land is supposed to exist off Pinnacle Street, near the place where Lancaster Drive is supposed to be constructed to at some time in the future.

A deed, some years ago, said that there was 3.41 acres in the lot, and it was on that premise that the town apparently collected taxes for several years.

Two homes have been constructed on a total of 90,103 square feet of that land, or a little over two acres. According to that deed, there should be about one and one-third acres of land left, enough to build a third home on.

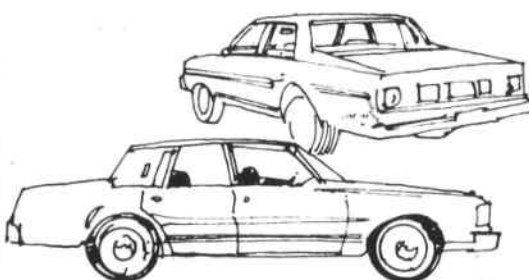

But a recent survey shows that there is only 27,161 square feet, or something over one-half an acre. So, the owner of the land will seek a zoning bylaw variance from the board of appeals in order to construct another home on less than the required one acre of land.

Hirtle survived the Halifax Explosion of 1917

No one today remembers the Halifax Explosion — well, hardly any one. It occurred at about 9:05 a.m. on December 6, 1917, in the harbor of Halifax, Nova Scotia.

There are two residents of Wilmington who can recall that event. Bernard Eaton of Main Street lived some miles away. He heard it. Wilfred Gordon Laurier Hirtle of 15 Jacquith Road was about a mile away. He was in school. He more than heard the noise — in fact he has quite a tale to tell.

Gordon, as he is known, born in Mahone's Bay, Nova Scotia. Fourteen years old he had just sat down in his classroom in Bluefield High School, in Halifax, when the explosion occurred.

Gordon's father and a brother, Kane, were working in the shipyard, a place known as "the old dockyard." His father, 47, was a shipwright. Both father and brother, who was 20, were killed that morning by the explosion, only a few hundred feet away.

The neighborhood of the Hirtle home was demolished. It was in an area, not too far from the shipyard, in which homes were rather tightly congregated. There was no space for backyard gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. Hirtle, both of German descent, were born in Nova Scotia, and both knew a few words of their parent tongue.

The world was at war — World War I.

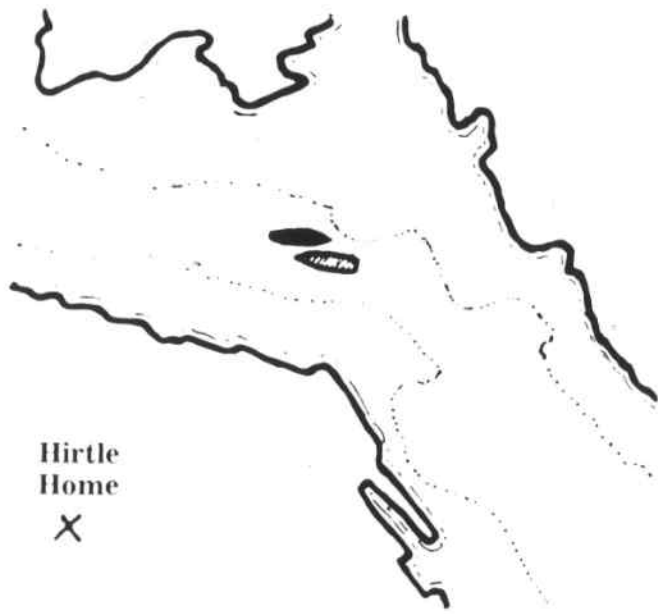

About 9:05 a.m. there was a collision of two ships in the narrows leading to the Bedford Basin, just a short distance from the shipyard. It was in the northern part of Halifax Harbor.

The Imo, Norwegian, 5043 gross tons, was going to sea. The Mont Blanc, French, 3131 gross tons, was coming in from sea. Both were under the guidance of local pilots. The collision took place in the "narrows," just off the dock yard.

The Mont Blanc had a cargo of TNT and other explosives. The accident occurred because of a misunderstanding of the whistle signals, between the two ships. There was plenty of room for the two ships to pass each other. The weather was clear. The ships were in plain sight, one to the other. Incredibly, the captain of the Mont Blanc, the ship carrying the explosives, lived to tell the tale, and to testify in court proceedings.

The two ships were about half a mile from the Hirtle home at the time of the explosion.

Gordon had just sat down in school at the time of the explosion. Incredibly, he says, everyone left that school by the front door. No one thought of using the side door. Gordon, who with others rushed out the front door, was injured, but he did not know it.

Everything in the north end of Halifax was flattened.

Gordon made his way to his parents home at 71 Russell St. There was nothing there. It was flat on the ground. He started trying to move some of the lumber.

Five hundred feet away was the Wellington Barracks, of the Canadian Army. Some soldiers saw the young man trying to move the lumber and asked him what he was doing.

He told the soldiers that his mother and his brother were somewhere in the house. The soldiers helped Gordon. They pried up the house, enough to find Mrs. Hirtle and Howell. They had been in the cellar, and were thus saved from being crushed to death.

But Howell seemed to be dead. He was taken to the morgue.

Howell was about 23 years old. He lay on the slab, in the morgue. Then someone heard a groan. Investigation showed that Howell was alive. He was taken to a hospital.

It was thought that he would never talk again. But he did — two years later. He came out of the hospital on crutches, with a patch over one eye, and his arm in a sling.

Howell was awarded a pension, for his injuries, of 25 cents a day. If he could not have walked (even though on crutches) there would have been a larger pension. Much of the money came from the Halifax Relief Commission, which was funded in part with American money.

The Boston Post was (if memory serves correctly) one of the newspapers which was behind the Halifax Relief Fund.

Hundreds of people were killed in that explosion. Hundreds were injured. Gordon's Uncle Albert lived about 10 miles away, and he was injured by flying glass.

Gordon, a few years later, moved to Boston. He got a job with Hood Rubber Company in Watertown.

One day, in 1925, he happened to fall, while at work. His right buttock started bleeding.

Gordon put his hand where the flesh was bleeding and felt a splinter of glass. He pulled out that splinter. It was about eight inches long.

It had been in his buttock ever since the explosion in 1917. There was never any infection, either then or in 1925. Nor were there any pieces of glass left within his body. It all came out in one piece.

That is something about which he could wonder, back in 1925. It is something about which he can wonder today, in 1984.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In response to controversy being generated regarding the proposed development of the Concord Street site at 1-93 in North Reading and Wilmington, we thought it might be helpful to our Wilmington neighbors to explain (a) who we are, (b) what we propose to develop and (c) what positive measures are being taken to ensure the protection of Wilmington's interests and Reading's wellfields.

As a major investment builder of over $750,000,000 of commercial office space, Spaulding & Slye has earned a national reputation for excellence and integrity. We develop, manage and market first class projects for ourselves and our partners and clients, who are among the leading companies and institutions in the country.

We propose to develop a six to eight building office park on the site, to be used for office and research and development purposes. No use in the park will be permitted to produce any effluent other than sanitary waste. The project will be first class in every respect, similar to our 1,000,000 square foot New England Executive Park in Burlington, will be a vast improvement to the existing site, and will provide increased real property taxes to the town.

Several months ago, we retained two of the finest engineering firms to analyze the hydrogeologic impact of our project upon the existing site and upon Reading's wells and to design (a) a retention basin to control site water run-off and (b) a sewage treatment plant to treat the sanitary waste on-site.

The design, construction and operation of both the retention basin and the treatment plant will comply with all applicable laws and regulations so as to assure no degradation of the river water quality. The entire site will be engineered with extreme care to manage parking lot run-off in a controlled fashion so as to appropriately mitigate any threat to the river water quality. The run-off will be retained in a basin constructed along the entire length of the site adjacent to the Ipswich River.

The basin will be planted with a variety of wetland vegetation known to be effective in absorbing residual pollutants, and the basin will control the rate of flow into the river to prevent increased flood levels. A state of the art tertiary sewer treatment plant, to be approved by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, will treat the sanitary waste so as to preclude degradation of the groundwater and the river water. Only treated water will be introduced into the leaching system.

As required by law, we will be preparing an Environmental Impact Report for the project so that these concerns which are so important to both our project and the surrounding communities will receive the full scrutiny of the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering and the public. The report will be available for review and comment by interested citizens.

Spaulding & Slye has worked closely with, and appreciates the thoughtful consideration of Wilmington's Conservation Commission. All work affecting the wetlands has been regulated by that commission's detailed order of conditions, which has been appealed by Reading's Conservation Commission and Department of Public Works. We share a concern for compliance with Wilmington's rules and regulations, as well as the concern of the citizens of Reading with respect to the protection of their wells, and we will not compromise our hard-earned reputation for excellence by permitting our project to threaten anyone's water quality.

Our solution to this problem includes proven engineering, compliance with law and a financial and moral commitment to quality and public well-being.

Very truly yours,

Spaulding & Slye Company

Dear Larz,

Job skills, a good citizen, and a well rounded individual are what most parents wish for their children in this world when they graduate from high school.

Good citizens don't litter, lie, cheat, steal, use drugs, or drive drunk. Good citizens pay their taxes, try to contribute to their community, and try to be good parents. Understanding the reasons behind all these is an essential part of education.

A well rounded individual, no matter what he is interested in making his life's work, should enjoy cultural activities such as sports; should have an understanding of world relationships and other countries' customs and cultures, if only from a business point of view.

Some skills take longer than others to learn and excel in. Only 50 percent of WHS graduates go to college and they choose the subjects and the amount of those they need, to meet requirements. The other 50 percent may be able to enter the job market directly from high school; such is the business course now that it is possible to step into a good paying job at once and train for higher levels of that occupation with evening courses. The industrial arts program also prepares for going into business for one's self or for others.

No matter which course your youngsters wish to pursue, I think they could use a "magic Wednesday." The necessary basics of math, English, social studies and sciences, plus the state required gym, could occupy Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, a little more intensely than now perhaps, and let the middle day of the week become one of joyous discovery, innovation, stretching the mind and soul if you will. Let all girls take automotive as well as boys, and boys learn basic cooking and sewing too. Sing, dance, paint, play an instrument, carve, learn computers, study conservation as it applies to this town and state with relevant field trips. The boy with his "nose to the grindstone" to earn a living might dream of playing a trombone; the girl training to be a mother or secretary may dream of acting or painting. Each by this system can dream a little; it enriches life.

Money basics are vital, from such simple things as making correct change quickly, to budgeting income - outgo in the real sense of planning ahead, to all about banking. Health, as separate from gym and athletics. Let girls understand the use of tools and carpentry, electricity, painting as might be needed by an ordinary homeowner as opposed to training for a career as at Shawsheen Tech. Practical applications in their clothing, cars, homes, furnishings, etc. of the principles of design and color, can make their lives more pleasant and even save money on foolish expenditures.

Relate geography to travel, commerce, international trade, and relate those items also to the study of a foreign language, especially as an extra job skill in this big new world. English and French are quite universally spoken, Latin is basic to learning others more quickly and Spanish is more and more needed now. We mean, of course conversational languages.

Relevancy to daily living and possible future occupations is an important consideration, but each person should be allowed time to cross over from one discipline to another and see things from other points of view. It makes coping with life and other people easier. We need to expose all students to as much variety as we possibly can.

It would be interesting to know how many thinking parents and youths agree with this idea. You may send your thoughts to me in care of the Excellence in Education Committee, School Comm. Bldg., Church Street, Wilmington 01887. It is for your children and for the future of this town that we plan.

Thank you,
Tina Prentiss

Sen. Buell named 'Legislator of the Year' by Mass. Municipal Association

Selectman Marjorie Davis, president of the Massachusetts Municipal Association, presented a "Legislator of the Year" award to State Senator Robert C. Buell, R-Boxford, at the group's annual conference in Hyannis, on Saturday, Oct. 27.

The Massachusetts Municipal Association, an organization of selectmen, mayors, city councillors, municipal managers and town finance committee members, gives this award to a small number of legislators each year to pay tribute to contributions and actions that benefit the cities and towns of the commonwealth. This year, three state representatives from the Springfield area were recipients of the award, along with Senator Buell.

An article on the awards in the Massachusetts Municipal Association's publication stated that Buell "has always been sensitive to and supportive of municipal issues. He served on the special water supply and hazardous waste disposal commissions, among others established by the Legislature, and has been heavily involved in the search for solutions to municipal sewage disposal problems."

The article also noted that Buell "has for a number of years been a conduit of legislative issues of importance to local government, filing and strongly supporting such legislation on behalf of cities and towns. He has also made aggressive and successful efforts to amend, negotiate or stop legislation which would be detrimental to local governmental interests."

For example, Buell filed legislation that would give cities and towns local option to retain all the money they collect for dog licenses and payments for dog-law violations. The senator effectively blocked a bill that would remove the torts claims notice provision under which an individual has up to two years to notify a city or town of a claim for damages; a measure that would increase from $5,000 to $25,000 municipal liability for damages caused by a defect in a public way; bills to freeze certain kinds of dimensional zoning; and, legislation that would impose mandatory arbitration for all "change-order" disputes in public construction projects that exceed $50,000.

Nov. 15 is the 'Great American Smokeout'

Wilmington smokers will have the opportunity to participate with other communities in the Great American Smokeout on Thursday, November 15.

Sponsored by the American Cancer Society, all smokers will be asked to refrain from smoking for one day. Hopefully, they will be encouraged to continue until they give up the smoking habit for good.

Vera Milano and Anne Linehan, local volunteer coordinators for the cancer society, have distributed book-marks, stickers, posters, and pertinent literature to all schools and town offices.

Describing the desire to quit smoking as a "conscious act which requires conscious self-discipline," one pamphlet put out by the cancer society provides a step by step plan to break the smoking habit.

From Northeastern

Two Wilmington residents were among the 750 Northeastern University graduates who received degrees during September commencement ceremonies in Northeastern's Matthews Arena:

Francis Shukis of Cedar Street received his master of business administration degree. Victoria A Von Schantz of Grove Grace Drive was awarded a bachelor of arts degree.

Dave's home

Dave Morse of South Street, Tewksbury has returned home from Winchester Hospital where he was confined for a week undergoing treatment of a heart ailment.

Robert Ridley, Jr.

Robert Ridley, Jr. of Grove Avenue, Wilmington has been accepted in the electronics technician - digital computer program at the Associated Technical Institute of Woburn.

Storytelling program

Students in the Project Enterprise programs in the Woburn Street and Shawsheen schools in Wilmington had exercise in storytelling last week, with Shawsheen School art teacher Bob Callahan. Youngsters were shown a shell, and were told to imagine a story about whatever lived in that shell. They then split into small groups, and told the stories to each other. A few of the students were selected to tell the story to the entire class, such as George Orfaly, above. Callahan is at left. George is a sixth grade student in Mrs. Cox's class at the Shawsheen School.

Sharing a story

The storytelling program is a part of an integrated arts component in the school system. In this case, Mr. Callahan, an art teacher, was given the opportunity to share one of his skills, storytelling, with students outside of an art class. He also uses stories in his art classes, for motivating students' imaginations for visual arts projects.

Woburn Street School students Lori Armstrong, Stacy LaCorcia and Marissa Iovanna shared a smile during their storytelling exercise.

Storytellers

Slightly more serious in their stories were Liane McAuliffe, Elaine Paolini and Amanda Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stone

Deborah Shukis is bride

Deborah Anne Shukis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Shukis of Cedar Street, Wilmington became the bride of Gary Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Stone of Sudbury on Saturday, October 6.

Father Thomas Reynolds performed the early evening ceremony before the altar of St. Thomas Church and Paul Beuchler enhanced the ceremony with his rendition of Ave Maria.

The bride, given in marriage by her father was radiant in a white lace and satin gown. Her fingertip veil, trimmed in matching lace fell from a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses.

Diane Hoover, of Winchester, sister of the bride served as matron of honor in a pink crepe dechine gown and carried a bouquet of roses and miniature mums.

Deborah Shukis, and Elizabeth Shukis, sisters-in-law of the bride, Dr. Paula (Winters) Buechler of Maryland, Laura Skinger of Brookline and Melissa Moore, of Brockton, friends of the couple, served as the brides attendants in burgandy crepe dechine gowns. They wore babysbreath in their hair and carried bouquets of roses and miniature mums.

Michael Murphy of Vermont, best friend of the groom acted as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Frank Shukis and Brian Shukis, brothers of the bride, Brian Tourville of New York, and Steve Brown of Leominster, friends of the couple and William Hoover, brother-in-law of the bride.

William Hoover, nephew of the bride served as ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at Hillview Country Club in North Reading where music for dancing was provided by S.R.O.

of Boston. Centerpieces and flowers at the head table were done by the mother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shukis chose a grey silk floor length gown with a purple orchid corsage while the mother of the groom was attired in a seafoam green full length gown with a yellow lily corsage.

For traveling the new Mrs. Stone chose a peach knit suit with black accessories.

Following a wedding trip to Hollywood, Calif., the couple is now living in Framingham.

The bride was educated in Wilmington High School and UMass, Amherst. She is presently employed as a proofreader for New England Journal of Medicine.

Her husband, educated in Sudbury and the Berkley School of Music is a self-employed musician.

Ipswich River Watershed Association sponsors watershed management conference

The apparently insignificant Ipswich River, with headwaters in Burlington, Wilmington, Andover and North Andover, is an important public water supply for nearly 400,000 people within its watershed basin boundaries and in nearby communities which pump water from the river. As a recreational resource, the river is used by people from all over the North Shore and beyond.

Preservation of the water supply, recreational, wildlife and aesthetic values of the Ipswich requires the cooperation of all the communities within the basin and all the other users of the river. Both groundwater and surface supply are subject to pollution and depletion. An effective management and protection program needs the input from local, basin-wide and state sources.

The Ipswich River Watershed Association is sponsoring a "Watershed Management Conference - Fostering Regional Consciousness" on Sat., Nov. 17 at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute, Route 62, Danvers, to provide information and encourage communication on topics relating to responsible uses of our vital water resources.

Keynote speaker will be Elizabeth Kline, special assistance for water resources, Executive Office of Environmental Affairs, who will present "Water Resources, the State's Perspective." At lunch there will be a showing of the newly developed slide presentation, "One County's Water," the story of water in Essex County, sponsored by the North Shore Garden Club. The rest of the conference will be in workshop format providing examples of how communities have protected and conserved their water supplies, what grants and other programs are available to help do this and to identify the need for and benefits of adopting a regional approach to the river system.

Workshop topics and panelists include, but are not limited to the following:

1. "Establishing the Groundwork for Greenway Planning" with Rolf Diamant, river planner, National Park Service; Elizabeth Bell, executive director, Essex County

Greenbelt Assn.; William Handren, Georgetown Conservation Commission.

2. "Local Initiatives to Protect Water Resources - wetland and aquifer identification in bylaws" with Betsy Colburn, chairperson of the Shirley Groundwater Protection Committee; Paula Milner, Aquifer Land Acquisition Program Manager, DEQE.

3. "Solid Waste Disposal and Protecting Water Quality," with Joan Gardner, deputy director, Bureau of Solid Waste Disposal, DEM; Walter Tonaszuck, chairman, Executive Committee of North Andover Resource Recovery Project.

4. "The Need for Regional Water Management - a Legislative Perspective," with Marsha Rockerfeller, legislative liaison, Mass. Audubon Society.

5. "Conservation - Municipal Strategies" with Lori Thayer, water conservation grants manager, DEQE; Helen Strieder, Wallace Floyd Associates; William Edgerton, programs manager, Wellesley Dept. Public Works.

Larger connection into Lowell water system in operation

The amount of water Tewksbury is receiving from Lowell about doubled last Friday when officials turned the valve and started operation of a new 16 inch water main connection on Andover Street. Lowell flushed work on some needed improvements on their side of the system recently and started operation of the connection that could bring between 800,000 to 1.3 million gallons of Lowell water per day into Tewksbury.

The town had been getting about 300,000 gallons of Lowell water per day through the Lowell connection on Andover Street, but with the installation of a larger size pipe that amount has now increased about two-fold. The new pipe provides the capacity to increase the amount of Lowell water coming through the connection by almost four-fold when the demand for water increases during the hotter months of the year.

The town allocated some $700,000 to replace a six inch main with a 16 inch main along Andover Street and up North Street to Catamount Road where the water will feed into the town's one million gallon underground reserve tank.

That money was allocated after the North Tewksbury area suffered severe water problems in 1983.

Earlier this year, Lowell allocated about $328,000 to make their side of the system compatible with the improvements made by Tewksbury.

The two communities also entered into a ten year renewable water sale and purchase agreement last year that will see Tewksbury paying for about one million gallons of water from Lowell's Merrimack River treatment plant each day of the year at an initial cost of $990 per million gallons. That cost will increase yearly at a rate that is tied to the rise in the consumer price index.

Although the town is not now taking in one million gallons a day, the town is apparently not being short changed. There will be days in the summer when the intake will jump to about 1.3 million gallons per day at the same rate.

And although the long awaited Lowell connection is now in operation, the extra water flowing through the pipe may not prevent the imposition of water use restrictions in town next summer. Apparently, the extra water, coupled with other water sources the town has, will still not meet estimated unrestricted demand during the high use period next June.

Chemical People Task Force to meet Nov. 12

Dr. John Heckler, PhD, of the Regional Health Center Mental Health Services will be the main speaker at the November 12 meeting of the Wilmington Chemical People Task Force.

There appears to be a clear relationship between changes in family life and the increase in drug use according to Dr. Heckler. "People who use illicit drugs differ markedly from nonusers... in attitudes and values, personality traits, home and school environment, relations with parents and friends and overall behavior."

Dr. Heckler's topic will be "Focus on Family and Chemical Dependency." The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thurs., Nov. 12 at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington.

LWV presents 'Tour of Massachusetts Prisons'

Howland starts new building

A ceremonial groundbreaking was held last week for the final lot to be developed on Jewel Drive. The Howland Development Co. is erecting a 100,000 sq. ft. building. The site is part of the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority (WRA) project, which converted tax title land and lots of unclear title into an industrial park. On hand for the groundbreaking were, from left, Nicki Johnson, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce and a member of the WRA, Eila Bellmore and Joan Sadowski of the Wilmington Conservation Commission, WRA member Sid Kaiser, Jim Stewart, chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, Tom Garden of Howland Development, State Rep. Jim Miceli, Anthony Gentile, chairman of the Wilmington Planning Board, planning assistant Sandy Murphy, and Carl Backman of the WRA. At right are Duncan Gratton and Samuel Oddo, brokers for the Codman Company.

Below, an architect's rendering of the new building.

Nutrition programs at health center

In a few short months, the Nutrition Services Program at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW) will mark its sixth year in existence. It has been a busy six years, with much accomplished and much more ahead.

The Nutrition Services Program is one of the few, if not the only, nutrition program in the area which serves a suburban community.

"We are unique because we are in a different setting. Most nutrition centers are located in large cities and serve the inner city population. We serve the suburban community which no one else does, except those in private practice," said Elvira Johnson, R.D., M.S., RHCW Nutrition Services coordinator.

Until a few years ago, those living in the suburbs did not have access to nutrition programs. The health center's commitment to health education and to the community combined to help initiate the Nutrition Services Program in January 1979, with Mrs. Johnson as coordinator.

Besides Mrs. Johnson, the staff includes Janet Murray, R.D., M.S., and graduate student Laura Kinzel, R.D. They see patients who are referred by primary care physicians at RHCW or by outside doctors. They provide individual diet counseling for people needing special diets due to medical conditions, such as diabetes, hypertension, cancer, weight problems, or eating disorders.

They also provide for long-term support and information on therapeutic and normal nutritional needs.

Mrs. Johnson noted, "We do not see our patients just once. It becomes long-term counseling. In a way, we become their primary therapists. After all, food permeates all aspects of our lives."

A three-day food intake record is taken, and that data, in combination with a few vital statistics such as age, weight, and height, is analyzed by a computer. The computer print-out lists what the person ate on a given day, and what nutrients were gained from that food. The listing includes measurements of protein, fat, carbohydrates, sodium, iron, calcium, cholesterol, and potassium.

In addition to patient counseling, Mrs. Johnson and her staff offer community health education seminars, presentations to local clubs and organizations, and information to local press and to local merchants.

"Through the Nutrition Services Program, we really feel like a part of the community," said Mrs. Johnson. For example, the RHCW program works with local supermarkets by suggesting that certain food products be carried on the local market shelves, products which would help their patients.

The local supermarkets have fulfilled the requests quickly and efficiently according to Mrs. Johnson. The local markets have also donated food products for the RHCW courses and demonstrations.

Local newspapers turn to the RHCW nutritionists for information on current food related issues such as anorexia nervosa, food additives, and programs for the hungry. The RHCW nutritionists also go into the public schools and present programs hosted by the local parent-teacher organizations.

The Nutrition Services Program extends into the community in other ways, too. Presentations are made to scouts, civic groups, and other social organizations. The RHCW staff has also offered seminars in food purchasing techniques to administrators and residents of the Mystic Valley Mental Health programs.

And, this past year, Mrs. Johnson participated in two national nutrition conferences. She presented a paper on nutrition counseling at the American Dietetic Association meeting in Washington D.C. and a paper on weight control groups at the annual meeting of the Society for Nutrition Education.

For more information about the Nutrition Services Program, call the Regional Health Center at 657-3910, ext. 525.

As a part of a program presented by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington there will be a public viewing of the LWV of Massachusetts slide show, "Tour of Massachusetts Prisons" on Wednesday, November 14 at the Whitefield School (Town Hall Annex), Rt. 62, North Wilmington from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The presentation takes an objective look at MCI Walpole, MCI Norfolk, Bay State Correctional Center, Park Drive Pre-Release and MCI Framingham. It examines the degrees of security at the different levels of prison, visiting procedures, and activities, vocational opportunities and programs available to inmates at the different institutions.

The thirty minute slide show will be followed by a discussion of issues of state correction by Margot Lindsay, director of the National Center for Citizen Participation in the Administration of Justice. A question and answer period will follow.

The evening is planned in conjunction with a statewide League study of corrections. The first phase of the study addresses the death penalty. League members across the state, as well as in Wilmington, will be examining the issues pro and con for capital punishment and will be coming to consensus through discussion. The second phase of the corrections study will be looking at alternatives to present sentencing practices.

The League encourages anyone interested in the issues of prison reform to attend this open meeting.

Tourney victory

The WHS field hockey girls advanced in tourney play with a win Tuesday. Clockwise: Lisa Cutone (33) moves in to join the celebration led by Kathy Robinson (9); Kristen Butt sends the ball upfield; MVP Robinson was again a big factor in the win; and the Wildcats celebrate after their first half goal.

Lisa Cutone scores lone goal

Defense, Cutone top Lynnfield

Superb defense and a timely first half goal after consistent pressure was the difference Tuesday for the Wilmington High School field hockey girls as they advanced in tournament play with an exciting 1-0 victory over Lynnfield.

The win advances coach Jan Cassidy's team to a round two showdown with Cape Ann League champion Triton (9-1-2) Thursday (Nov. 8) in a 2:30 p.m. game at the Triton field. Tuesday's victory gives the Wildcats a 15-3-1 record this season. Wilmington completed its' regular season in a second place tie with Lawrence in the MVC Small School Division.

The Wildcats dominated territorial control of the ball throughout the first half until junior Lisa Cutone tipped home a goal at 15:35, with the assist going to junior Aurelie Smith.

Senior goaltender Kristen Pepe was up to the tourney pressure when it counted Tuesday, coming up with nine saves, including a pair of stops on Lynnfield breakaways. Lynnfield finished with an 11-10 shots advantage.

Seniors Kathy Robinson (league MVP) and Marion Cushing sparked the WHS offense, while defensively, the standouts were senior Janet Crowley and Aurelie Smith.

WHS offense fires blanks

Lowell stifles Wildcat attack

It was your typical defensive punch out. Neither team moved the ball very well, but the unbeaten Lowell High School Raiders moved it better to the tune of a 14-0 blanking of slumping Wilmington Saturday. The loss was the third straight for coach Eddie Harrison's gritty bunch who complete one grinder of a second half schedule Saturday when they travel to tangle with MVC power Dracut.

Nothing the Cats did offensively seemed to work Saturday, as after ace senior receiver Brian Moon went down with an injury WHS settled for a ground game that was gobbled up by Lowell's fine defensive line.

The two teams did the defensive tango for much of the first half before Lowell quarterback Ed Fleming scored on a five yard run with just three seconds left in the half.

Lowell then denied the Wildcats with a 58 yard kickoff return to open the second half. That blow eventually led to a Fleming to Jim Slattery five yard strike for the game's final touchdown.

Wilmington was limited to just two first downs, 40 yards rushing and 20 through the air. The Cats managed one first down per half Saturday. Even talented junior running back Tony Cutone was shutdown, and a solid blocking offensive line was just not allowed to come off the ball.

Alumni meet

Central Catholic alumni are invited to participate in the second annual alumni cross country meet to be held Wednesday, November 21 at 1:30 p.m. The race will take place on the Lawrence Reservoir course (a 2.8 mile run).

Interested alumni should report to the school by 12:30 p.m. or to the reservoir by 1 p.m. the day of the race.

Tewksbury Pop Warner

B' squad completes undefeated season

Tewksbury's B Pop Warner team is now the only undefeated squad in the Merrimack Valley. The Tewksbury B team finished the regular season with an 18-12 victory over Billerica's B team. This gives Tewksbury an 8-0-1 regular season record, making them the only undefeated team in the Merrimack Valley B Division. The winners gained 1658 total yards, scoring 160 points and allowing only 57 points.

The offense was spearheaded by the outstanding running of Rob Lombardi, Eric Lein, Jeff Saunders, Kevin Ward and Mark Sweeney, coupled with an excellent group of receivers led by Jim McLean, Keith Sullivan and Dan Donaghy, with great protection from the offensive line anchored by Glenn Harris, David Babine, Sean Wilson, Keith DeSisto and Bobby Marshall.

This unit was led by quarterback Dave Boudreau. Backing up this unit was a very capable and ready group of both offensive and defensive players which consisted of Steve LaValle, Ken Silvia, Jonathan Harvey, Dave Smith, Shawn Dillon, John Elwood, John Field, Joe Belinski, Colin Bradford, Kevin Kelley, Tom Banachzewski and Jeff Rideout.

The coaches would like to thank all the parents for their support and look forward to their continued support in the upcoming postseason play.

Tewksbury's A team closed out the season with an 8-6 victory over Billerica. Tewksbury points came via a safety brought about by the aggressive play of Tom Burns and a spectacular interception return of 35 yards for a TD by John Miller.

Other offensive standouts were Shawn Conroy and Steve Pesce, with excellent defensive play by Scott Blades, John Miller and Tom Aylward. Tewksbury's A team finished the regular season with a 6-3-0 record.

The Tewksbury D team Pawnee ended its regular season with a 27-14 win over Billerica. Touchdowns by Carmen Zullo (two), Tim Nawn and Barry Green. Outstanding offensive play by Tony Polamino and Robert Clark, who recovered a fumble. This effort was complimented by excellent defensive effort by Jim Nowak, Brian Adams, Tim D'Souza, Matthew Moore and Kirk Lombardi, capping a regular season record of 5-3-0.

The Tewksbury D team Sioux beat the Lowell Cardinals, 18-13 to end their regular season. Touchdowns were scored by Joey Goglia (two) and Dana Boudreau. Goglia also had 1487 offensive yards for the season.

Outstanding defensive plays were made by Steve Sinkus, Scott Bairstow, Dana Boudreau and John Merowski. This gives the Sioux an outstanding regular season record of 7-1-0.

C' team running back Sean Mackey not only went over the 1,000 yard mark for the season Sunday, but scored touchdowns on runs of 60, 38, 68 and 50 yards in helping his team roll past a winless but tough Billerica squad, 26-12.

Mackey and Tim Lightfoot notched the game's extra points, while Lightfoot turned out the lights with a dazzling 36 yard run in the fourth quarter. Lightfoot also finished with two receptions good for 14 yards.

Mackey galloped around and through Billerica for 232 yards on 10 carries. He now has 1,069 yards with a possible contest against Canton Sunday remaining on the schedule.

Bob Barasso, quarterback Keith Nolan and Jason Anzivino threw the key blocks on Mackey's second TD scamper of the game. Defensively, the leaders were Garrin Worth, Barasso and Steve Fields with two sacks apiece. Trevor May also helped the cause with a pair of batted passes. Earning game captain honors were Barasso, May and Mackey.

College corner

Smith top Curry scorer

The Curry College varsity hockey team opens the longest schedule in its history - 27 games - on Wednesday, Nov. 14 at Tufts University (game time - 8 p.m.).

The top returning players include Kevin Smith, a sophomore from Wilmington and the team's big gun at forward (24 goals, 14 assists last year); junior forward Richard Morahan of Waltham (12-12); senior forward Peter Camerlengo of Scituate (7-7); junior forward Tim Flaherty of Scituate (14-13); defenseman Tom Dolan, junior from Billerica (2-14); senior forward Mike Cutone of Arlington (7-8); Bill Brister, sophomore forward from Dennis (6-7); and junior goalie Tim Downes of Hyanisport, the team's "foundation the last two years," according to Coach Stewart. Downes had a 10-5-1 record and a 3.71 goals against average in 1983-84.

The Colonels are coming off three consecutive winning seasons under the tutelage of former Tufts coach Bill Stewart. Last year, the team's first in the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), the Curry skaters posted a 16-7-1 record. In three years at the helm, Stewart's record is 44-18-3.

This year's schedule includes 19 games against ECAC teams, among them Amherst College, which had the top record in the Conference last season. Curry was 6-7 against ECAC colleges in 1983-84.

Other strong ECAC teams the Colonels will be facing this season include Southeastern Massachusetts University, Wesleyan University, and Framingham State College. By playing at least 15 ECAC games this year, Curry can qualify for post-season ECAC tournament play.

The games with Amherst (Dec. 3) and Villanova University (Feb. 3) are the first Curry has ever played against those schools. In addition, the Colonels will participate for the first time in the Crab Pot Tourney, hosted by the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis on January 26-27.

Tourney rush

Wilmington High School had plenty of solid rushes like this Tuesday enroute to a 1-0 tournament victory.

MVC All-Conference soccer squad

Three local players have been named to the Merrimack Valley Conference Soccer All-Star Team. Tewksbury juniors Rick Heartquist (goalie) and Mark Masone (center-forward) were named to the team with Wilmington junior sweeper Sean Connors. Tewksbury players Nario Simao and Jim Field played in the annual all-star game Saturday as did Wilmington's Brian Wetzler and Steve Caizzi. Hartquist, Masone and Connors also played for the Small School Stars, who were coached by TMHS mentor Steve Levine.

International pounds Regulators, 5-2

Tewksbury International 5 Tewksbury Regulators 2
International rebounded after their first loss last week with a 5-2 victory over the Regulators in a hard fought game that was closer than the score indicates. Early pressure by the Regs. paid off, as Fernando Silva broke free and fired home a 20 yard rocket after 15 minutes. This along with an Inter penalty shot miss and several close calls from both sides gave the Regs a 1-0 halftime lead.

Inter, needing the win to secure a playoff spot, quickly took command after halftime, tying the game on a Mike Leahy goal and taking a 2-1 lead. Ernst Uebel then slotted home his first goal within 10 minutes. Martin Toth scored another five minutes later and Ernst Uebel scored his second for a 4-1 Inter lead at the 20 minute mark.

The Regs. don't give up and kept battling away, having several good chances, but Inter's defense held with 15 minutes left. Leo Dias hit Inter's fifth goal. The Regs finally broke through with five minutes left, as Albino Silva found the net.

Dracut 4 Tewksbury Blues 1

The Blues started slowly and Dracut capitalized with two quick goals in the first 10 minutes. The offense and defense later came alive and the game became a grinding hard fought first half and for 20 minutes of the second half. A third Dracut score was quickly followed by a Blues' score to make it 3-1. The Blues' score came on a long throw in that caused a jam in front. Bob Joyce got a foot on it and scored. The Blues' offense continued to attack, but with 10 minutes left in the game, Dracut scored again to seal the win. The Blues are now 3-4-1.

Simpson breaks rushing record

Tewksbury's Adrian Simpson scored the game's first touchdown and ripped off 125 yards on the ground to become the top all-time rusher in Shawsheen Tech football history, as the Rams (4-2) handed Northeast a 15-12 setback Saturday. The loss was Northeast's first this season in Commonwealth football action.

Adrian's 125 yards on 22 carries gave him 1,068 for the season with two games still left to play. His totals Saturday pushed him past the Tech mark of 1,005 set by Bob O'Connor in 1982. The previous mark was held by Jim Hachey with his 1,003 yards in 1978.

Tewksbury JV's complete most successful season

The Tewksbury junior varsity soccer squad has completed the most successful season in its' six year history. The team finished the 1984 season with a record of 10-7-1. The 10 wins gave the JV's a third place finish in league play.

After opening the season with a win and three losses, the team then reeled off five consecutive victories before bowing to a powerful Andover team.

Tewksbury's JV team has always been a highly competitive member of the tough MVC and has been able to give a good account of itself, even in defeat.

The team scored 51 goals, surrendered only 25 and had six shutouts to its' credit. The roster consists of 12 freshmen, five sophomores and five juniors.

The juniors: Defender Jonathon McLeod; midfielders Jeff Wynn, Matt Grund and Ronny Mueller; and forward Lee Sutherland. The sophomores included goalie Nick Grund; defenders Tim McCaffery and Tommy Billecliff; midfielder Ricky LeDuc, and forward Matt Crowley. The freshmen were goalie Danny Fiore; defenders

Jeff Stone and Mark Paglia; midfielders Dave Bufano, Mike Cunningham, and Billy Martin; and forwards Al Lewis, Tim Quinn, Ron Perrin, Joe Seely, Bob Adrian and Brad Smart.

Complete 1984 score results: Tewksbury defeated Lowell 3-1, lost to Lowell 2-1; defeated Billerica 5-0, lost to Billerica 3-0; lost to Chelmsford both times, 4-1; defeated Wilmington twice, 2-1 and 4-1; defeated Methuen 4-1, lost to Methuen 2-0; defeated Dracut 1-0, tied Dracut 1-1; lost to Andover twice, 4-1 and 2-0; defeated Greater Lawrence twice, 9-0 and 2-0; defeated Haverhill twice, 9-0 and 6-0.

The purpose of the JV program at Tewksbury has always been to teach and instruct the players in the skills that will enable them to become varsity athletes. All but two of the members of this season's championship varsity team were former JV members.

Coach Bob Manzi and coach Levine would like to congratulate the junior varsity team on a very successful season and welcome any and all candidates for next year's squad.

State Coaches Meet

Saturday the top seven runners from the boys and girls teams went to Franklin Park in Boston to compete in the State Coaches Meet. Three of the Tewksbury runners came home with medals, including Fran Mulrain, who placed 16th in the girls' junior-senior three mile race, Peggy Forsyth was 20th in that race and Steve Murphy took 30th in the tough boys junior-senior race.

Other fine runs were turned in by Ed Piscopo (34th in the junior-senior race), Jeff Smith and Brian Tremblay (59th and 83rd in the junior-senior race) and Tricia Censullo, Sue McLaughlin, Justine Short, and Kristin Conley (51st, 81st, 85th

Boring work

The New England Test Boring Co. was at work on the grounds of Wilmington High School this week, taking soil borings on land to be occupied by new construction. Here they are working near the present shops, which will be the site of the new gymnasium.

Avco names Shaffer vice president of finance

Daniel L. Shaffer, a former General Electric financial officer, was named vice president of finance for Avco Systems Division, it was announced by Hank McCard, vice president and general manager of an aerospace technology division of the Avco Corporation. In this new position Shaffer will be responsible for all ASD's financial functions and activities.

"Mr. Shaffer's extensive background in structuring financial plans for manufacturing activities will be very beneficial in support of the Division's growing production environment," said Mr. McCard.

Mr. Shaffer has more than 20 years of experience with several manufacturing divisions of General Electric, most recently as finance manager at the Noryl Plastics Division, Selkirk, NY. He held previous financial posts at GE's Space Division in Valley Forge, PA and Aerospace Group in New York, NY.

Mr. Shaffer received a bachelor's degree in finance and economics from the University of Nebraska in 1963. He completed GE's financial management and management development programs.

Avco Systems, located in Wilmington, is engaged primarily in the engineering development and manufacturing of advanced defense systems for the U.S. Government.

Avco Corporation, with $3 billion in annual revenues, is diversified in four selected business areas: financial services, propulsion systems, aerospace technology and management services.

High school renovation

Design phase is half completed

by Arlene Surprenant
The high school renovation design development phase is now 50 percent complete and should be finished November 26, according to Permanent Building Committee Chairman Diane Allan. If all goes according to schedule, as it is now, projected completion of the whole renovation will be in the fall of 1986.

Speaking before selectmen at their Monday night meeting, Allan reviewed the time frame for the four different contract phases. Once the design phase is finished, the architect will do a complete recalculation and, with more accurate drawings, be able to give more accurate budget costs.

The construction document phase will take 18 weeks to compile 100 sheets of actual construction descriptions. The bidding phase will take eight weeks, with the anticipated bid date being May, 1985. And construction, the final phase, will tentatively begin June, 1985 and be completed in one and one-half years.

The architect's design plans virtually follow the original plans, with a few minor classroom changes.

The first floor plan features a new cafeteria with a 340 student seating capacity which, hopefully, will allow for two lunch periods instead of three. It also incorporates a footpath with an overhang to provide quick passage from one side of the school to the new cafeteria or gym. All offices will remain the same except for expanded guidance offices, originally planned for the second floor, now located near the main office.

Home economics and child-care classrooms will have extra room for a simulated nursery and a music suite, complete with practice room and storage space, will be located in the old cafeteria.

On the second floor there will be a library extension with two typing classes held in the old library. Also featured will be a business area with "an office procedural set up," computer science rooms, and a teachers' lounge with handicap facilities.

The permanent building committee (PBC) has awarded three sub consultant awards to New England Test Boring Co. (borings), Dana F. Perkins & Assoc., Inc. (septic system), and Bolt Beranek & Newman, Inc. (acoustical) to handle various areas of the renovation work. The committee has also hired a survey firm to survey the whole school.

In reviewing the septic design layout with the board of health, PBC members agreed to use existing leaching fields. The septic firm will make a thorough check for adequate leaching fields, Allan said.

At the end of October, committee members interviewed architect Stuart Lesser of Joslin, Lesser & Associates for the position of construction manager. They discussed with him ways to keep the project moving and yet meet all the needs of the town, which will be one of the construction manager's primary responsibilities.

Members also hope to hire a resident engineer, who will be the inspector and administrator of the project, once construction is underway.

Library director's report
The "number one budget consideration" for the Wilmington Public Library next year will be joining the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium, according to Library Director Philip Meriam. In a department update, Meriam explained the advantages of joining with 11 other communities in the consortium.

The main advantage will be the availability of a main frame date based computer, located in Andover, to provide "housekeeping" or clerical efficiency and help streamline library procedures, in terms of modernization and access to more materials.

A recent computer study has shown that Wilmington needs to develop computerization and data processing as "the way we should go." Even if Wilmington didn't join the consortium, it would still have to purchase computers to modernize library functions.

The computer is not just "a fancy electronic gadget," added Meriam, but is a tool to improve library service. It will not, however, eliminate the need for library staff or major expenditures.

The consortium, begun in 1982 through a federal grant, will also provide a way of pooling resources. It will provide such materials as records, cassettes, maps, and magazines so that "the community and its citizens will be better served," said Meriam.

The major drawback to joining the consortium is the high price.

Meriam explained that the initial cost will be from $75,000 to $91,000 with $20,000 after the initial outlay, to cover membership charges, conversion costs, and general maintenance costs. The director added that he has received a favorable response from both the town manager and the finance committee on this proposal.

As far as his department's progress, Meriam pointed out that since Proposition 2½, his department is "basically just holding our own."

There has been an increase in demand for library services, creating some problems. There has also been a 32 percent increase in the cost of materials and the staff is down two fulltime positions, leaving a present operating staff of seven. Meriam added that he has fixed expenses, with approximately $20,000 of his present budget going to periodical subscriptions, reference materials, and just "providing the basics."

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski agreed that the library is underfunded and there has been very little increase in funds over the years.

Successful fair

Thanks to the many seniors who attended the arts and crafts fair with their families and friends last Saturday. Seniors are also grateful for the many beautiful articles which were donated by so many of our seniors which filled the tables. Thanks also to those who spent a very busy day working at the tables and to God for answering our prayers for such a perfect day and to the above mentioned fair was a complete success.

Elks Thanksgiving

Those who would like to attend, but have not signed up for the Tewksbury - Wilmington Elks' annual Wilmington senior citizen Thanksgiving dinner-dance to be held Thursday evening, Nov. 15 may pick up a ticket at the Senior Center in Wilmington Plaza. The tickets are free of charge.

Center closed

Monday, November 12 is a holiday. The center will be closed. The minibus will not be on the road; please make appointments accordingly. The arts and crafts first party scheduled for that date has been cancelled.

Fuel assistance

Fuel assistance applications are still being taken at the senior center by appointment only. Many seniors are arriving without copies of their income - Social Security, S.S.I. and pension checks. Remember if your Social Security checks go to the bank and you receive a pension check or an S.S.I. check, you will not only need a letter from the bank stating the amount of your Social Security, but a copy of the other checks as well. It takes three to six weeks for your application to be processed through the computers. You do not qualify just because you have made out an application. Do not call the fuel dealer and order fuel unless you are going to pay for it yourself. If you are without fuel call the Center, and we will make the contact for you.

To qualify for assistance the following are the figures. For a family of one, you may receive $750, if your income is no more than $6225; $500 if it is no more than $4740 and $325 if it is no more than $3715. For a family of two, $750 if not more than $8,400; $500 if not more than $10,080 and $325 if not more than $11,760.

Any senior confined to his or her home due to illness or frailty of age should call the center and a home visit will be made.

Wheelchair lift

A wheelchair lift will be installed on the minibus this week. This will allow handicapped seniors to be transported to doctors, hospitals, the center and other elderly travel those seniors confined to wheelchairs or those who cannot use the step of the minibus. Those who need this service should call the center (657-7595 or 658-2258) at least a day ahead so arrangements can be made.

During October 423 citations were issued, including arrests and warnings. Three hundred and twenty-two citations for speeding were issued, mainly through radar stops. The current cost for a moving violation runs from $20 to $100. Each speeding citation costs the offender $50. For those who fail to pay their fines, a default warrant is issued, subjecting them to possible arrest and a loss of a day's pay while being arraigned in District Court. Burlington K of C gala evening

FM TALK: A few thoughts crossed this Roving correspondent's mind this week. The following are a few of them:

Get out your social calendar, and make a note to attend a very worthwhile event in Burlington on Saturday evening.

A Las Vegas night will be held between 7 p.m. and midnight at the Burlington Knights of Columbus Hall, on Lexington Street, for the benefit of exceptional children in that town.

The Burlington K of C has done an outstanding job in the past in supporting the needs of exceptional and handicapped children.

According to John Hanley and Bob Emmert, co-chairmen of the Exceptional Children's Fund, the K of C has successfully provided assistance to exceptional children through its support of Camp Columbus, which is run by the Burlington Recreation Department.

Hanley and Emmert also indicate that fund raising activities, such as Las Vegas nights, at the K of C have helped to contribute to the Burlington school system's program for exceptional children.

One of the K of C's most ardent endeavors was raising money to contribute towards the construction of a kitchen for training exceptional children.

The K of C's Exceptional Children's Fund has also provided hand tools for training. Another of its major contributions was put to use by providing two auditory trainers for two Burlington girls who were suffering from deteriorating hearing loss. The K of C has also been instrumental in establishing an exceptional children's swimming program.

"It is one of the most worthwhile causes the Burlington K of C has ever undertaken," said Bill Sunderland, one of the club's members, "so we hope that we can pack the hall Saturday night, and raise even more money to help those exceptional children."

Moving on to other thoughts. This correspondent had the opportunity to observe one of the biggest drunk driving roadblocks in the state's history take place at the Rte. 128 and Rte. 38 rotary a couple of weeks ago. My most vivid impression: once you've seen how determined the state police are to rid the highways of drunk drivers, you're not likely to get behind the wheel after you've had too much to drink.

Sgt. Jim Sartori, public relations officer for the State Police, took me through the entire procedure, starting with the initial inspection of the vehicle, to the field sobriety tests, and finally to the arrest phase.

"We're not trying to bring back prohibition," Sgt. Sartori told me. "We just want people to use reason when they drink and then get behind the wheel of a car."

In case you're not aware of what happens to you when you don't use reason when drinking and driving, consider this:

George Pandiaraj adapts to a New England lifestyle

By JIM ROUILLARD

He loves the bright colors of pumpkins and autumn leaves against a brilliant, blade-sharp, blue New England sky.

But he's largely indifferent to the merits of home-made apple pie — dislikes cold weather and bland food — and always carries a bottle of tabasco sauce in his pocket.

Wakefield's George Pandiaraj, though born and raised in the torrid subcontinent of India, said he had to come to frigid New England to find his greatest prize: Kathy (Jackson) Pandiaraj.

A job assignment some three years ago brought Pandiaraj to America from his native city of Vellore in the Indian state of Madras.

And though he certainly anticipated some degree of change and adventure in a climate and culture vastly different from his own, he had no expectation whatsoever that America, land of opportunity, would yield him a bride.

A talk with George — born to one of India's minority Christian families of predominantly Tamil ancestry — provides fascinating details of India's rich and ancient history. The roots of George's native language, Tamil, in fact, go back more than two millennia.

In a quaint (1911) edition of Encyclopedia Britannica, the editors were still using the contribution of a man who had died in 1896 and had written the following condescending observation: "The Tamils proper are smaller and of weaker build than Europeans, though graceful in shape... (with) many good qualities — frugality, patience, endurance, politeness... Of all the South Indian tribes (sic) they are the least sedentary and the most enterprising."

Whatever the conclusions of an English subject writing in the hey-day of Queen Victoria's empire, Randiran George Benjamin Pandiaraj (George's full name) is by no means of small or weak build, though, in my experience, he is patient, polite and enterprising.

As for frugality, it is my belief that Kathy handles the finances, so I shall defer that question to her.

George said his father, Samuel Pandiaraj, majored in physics at the American College in Madurai (The City of Temples,) which is one of the oldest cities in India — a stronghold of Tamil literature — and remains today a major tourist attraction for the beauty of its architecture, despite its three seasons: "hot, hotter, and hottest."

PHOTOGRAPHER AND COMPUTER PROGRAMMER, George Pandiaraj

George said his family have been Christians for at least six generations on both sides. He added that one of his grandmothers was of Goani extraction, indicating that she was half-Portuguese, from the Goa district (formerly under Portuguese rule) on the Malabar Coast.

George's father, who died in 1966, taught physics at Voorhees High School in Vellore. His mother, Indra (Isaac) Pandiaraj, who earned her master's degree in social work, has been a social worker at Christian Medical College Hospital in Vellore for 30 years.

The couple had one other child, George said, his younger sister, Sheila, 27, who has already earned her medical degree and is practicing medicine in India now. George's own education has been eclectic, in terms of the religious affiliation of the various schools he has attended, from the Roman Catholic St. Mary's Convent ("baby-school" through fifth grade),

Urgent appeal for type "o" blood

"Although we have witnessed a slight increase in our group O collections, over the past few days, it has not been significant enough to pull us out of this critical situation," John Wells, Director of Regional Services for the American Red Cross Blood Services — Northeast Region. Early last week the supply of group O blood dropped below critical levels in Massachusetts, forcing the Red Cross to limit its service to many hospitals. An appeal for group O blood donors, as well as new blood donors, was subsequently issued.

"Our blood collections did increase slightly, reducing our deficit for group O blood by about 400 units. But this still leaves us about 1200 units below what is needed for hospitals throughout the region," explained Wells. "Distribution to area hospitals is severely afected by this shortage," he added. The Red Cross supplies blood to over 160 hospitals throughout Massachusetts and Maine for medical-surgical procedures and treatments, including an average of 30 open heart surgeries and multiple liver transplantations, sometimes on a weekly basis.

"Because group O is the most commonly occurring blood group among the general population, it is also the blood type most frequently transfused. Therefore, it is important to maintain adequate levels of group O blood. Group O blood may be vital in the treatment of major trauma victims and other emergency cases as it may also be safely transfused to patients of any blood type," according to Wells.

"We are particularly appealing to people who have never donated before to help share with our regular blood donors the responsibility of maintaining the community blood supply," said Wells.

Generally, anyone in good health, 18 years old (17 years with parental consent) or older, who weighs at least 110 pounds and has never had hepatitis may be able to donate blood. For more information on donor center's hours and scheduled bloodmobiles call 1-800-342-8748 or your local American Red Cross.

Pandiaraj

Hindu High school (grades 6-11), one year of Pre-University Course and, finally, to earn his bachelor's and master's degrees in engineering at the University of Madras.

George said that, though as a Christian in India he was a member of a minority, he had no feeling of minority status, in the way he perceives the term minority in America to convey the sense of "less privileged."

George, who started work in this country as a computer programmer in Maine — said he and Kathy Jackson met just before Christmas, 1981, at a party in Portland.

And it all began with Cheshire cats.

George said that when he first saw Kathy he was struck by the loveliness of her long, gleaming hair and her large, beautiful eyes, but concluded that she was far too attractive ever to be interested in him.

She, on the other hand, said that George's whole body language was "cool," like a play-boy's — and that turned her off from the start. Yet, somehow, Kathy felt constrained to ask George why he had such a "devious" smile, like a Cheshire cat's — so of course George, who hadn't read Lewis Carroll's "Alice's Adventures in Wonderland," had to know all about Cheshire cats.

They each soon discovered that the other was shy — and from that point on, they explored common interests: gradually proceeding from psychology to philosophy to more personal subjects.

They were married not quite a year later.

Kathy, a native of Whitefield, N. H., grew up in Maine; she works at the Visiting Nurse Association — Middlesex East, in Stoneham, and is just two credits short of her bachelor's degree in human services. Both Kathy and George are members of the First Baptist Church of Stoneham, where George sings in the choir. He works now in Woburn as a computer programmer and analyst.

But the imaginative listener wants George Pandiaraj to go beyond computers — and reach deeper than an academic's interest in ancient aspects of the Tamil culture.

Talking with George, you want his conversation to open glittering, mysterious vistas like the India evoked by the great writers A. Conan Doyle and Rudyard Kipling and their fabulous tales of 19th-century India.

I wanted to hear tales of temples of doom and "suttee" — the now forbidden Hindu custom of a widow cremating herself on her husband's funeral pyre — along with stories of fabulous treasures of emeralds, opals, and moonstones — of diamonds and rubies as large as pigeons' eggs.

But it's 1984 — and the fantastic India of Kipling, Doyle and Jules Verne is no more, according to George, despite his single reference to "nagas" — a group of headhunters — some of whom may still lurk in the hills — but they don't do any more hunting. So the romantic must be replaced by the realist in studying present-day India.

George said he joins his own people and those he hopes are the majority of the world's people in deploring last week's assassination of India's prime minister, Indira Gandhi.

He said the Sikh, two of whom gunned down Mrs. Gandhi on the front steps of her official residence, belong to a group who, though they comprise less than two percent of India's population, provide 10 percent or more of the Indian army.

The Sikh come from the Punjab, George said, which is the "Wheatbasket of India," and for this reason and for what they feel were their disproportionate contribution to the nation during the wars against China and Pakistan, they want to form a separate state.

"I see the real impetus behind the Sikhs' separatist movement as simply a desire for power and a bigger share of the economic pie," he said. "But if the Sikhs can secede — then every individual state could withdraw from the union — based on religious or cultural differences.

"The Western media don't seem to be pointing up Mrs. Gandhi's reasons, earlier, for sending government troops into the temple where the Sikh were stockpiling ammunition and weapons. If their motives were religious — why were they loading the temple with the tools of death?"

"India needs a strong, strict leader like Indira Gandhi. Part of the problem is that India is greatly overpopulated; poverty and illiteracy are rampant — and it's a democracy, which has been described as both the best and the worst form of government.

"Because people have the right to say or think different things — they go off in all different directions. But India's problems are just so vast and complex. Indira Gandhi tried to set the ground rules; and she was pretty strict in enforcing what must be enforced. She enforced strict rules of produc-

MARLO THOMAS

The award-winning actress, Marlo Thomas, will be guest speaker at this year's annual Benefit Luncheon sponsored by the Women's Committee of New England Villages. The luncheon will be held on Thursday, November 8, at the Boston Sheraton Hotel. Natalie Jacobson, co-anchor of WCVB-TV's nightly news, will introduce Ms. Thomas.

Ms. Thomas, who became a star as television's first unmarried career woman in the series "That Girl," has concentrated her efforts since then on shattering the myths and misconceptions of what a person "should" be. A contemporary woman, and winner of four Emmy Awards, one of which was for her critically acclaimed television show for young people: "Free to be... You and Me," Marlo Thomas is the latest in a long list of celebrities who have spoken on behalf of New England Villages Women's Committee.

New England Villages, located in Pembroke, Ma., is a community where mentally retarded adults can live with dignity and a sense of purpose. Adults who are no longer eligible for social and vocational programs elsewhere, can live within the village in communal residences and can work in one of a variety of vocational settings.

The Women's Committee of New England Villages, a non-profit organization, provides funding for the Villages. And the Benefit Luncheon with its accompanying Program Book, is the primary source of the Women's Committee revenue.

Luncheon Committee Chairman this year is Marcia Pearlstein Margolis and the Program Book Chairman is Shirley Sheingold. For ticket information, please call (617) 332-5025 or (617) 244-4668.

18TH CENTURY ART

Robert Wark, Curator of Art at the Huntington Library, Art Gallery and Botanical Gardens in San Marino, California, will give a slide talk on Tuesday, November 20. The lecture will begin at 8:00 p.m., not at 6:00 as previously announced. The lecture is open to members of the Museum at $5 per person and to the general public at $7.50 per person. A reception will follow. For information and reservations, please call 566-1401.

Dr. Wark's special field of scholarly interest is British and European art of the 18th century, the area in which the Huntington collection is concentrated. Founded in 1919, the Huntington Library is one of America's most important rare book libraries, the collections of English art, especially drawings and portraits. The Blue Boy by Gainsborough, a painting

Isabella Gardner hoped to acquire, was finally bought for Henry Huntington by Duveen. Mr. Wark will discuss the formation of the Huntington collections with emphasis on its English art.

This is the second in a series of four slide lectures on collectors who, like Isabella Stewart Gardner, established museums to house their acquisitions. The last two talks will be on East Coast collections: the Yale Center for British Art, in New Haven, Connecticut, and the Walters Art Gallery, in Baltimore, Maryland.

Parking is courtesy of Simmons College, off Avenue Louis Pasteur.

Over 100 New England artisans will exhibit for sale a wide variety of crafts. There will be a snack bar and movies for the children throughout the day also.

UNLIMITED RUMMAGE

Sporting goods, appliances, housewares, jewelry, clothing and collectibles will be selling at bargain prices (mostly $.10 to $.50) at the annual Adventure Unlimited Rummage Sale and Auction, Saturday, November 10 from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. at St. Peter's Episcopal Church on Route 20 in Weston — one mile west of Route 128.

There will also be lots of dishes, linens, toys and books selling for bargain prices. An antique carved wooden fireplace will be one of the items going on the block at the auction, which will begin at 10:30 a.m. Furniture and a number of other items will also be auctioned off by Auctioneer Robert Rodd.

A snack bar serving hamburgers, hot dogs, donuts and hot and cold drinks will be open all day. Proceeds will go to the Boston West Chapter of Adventure Unlimited, an international organization which sponsors service activities and wholesome social events for young people.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE DAY

Over thirty agencies will participate in Bunker Hill Community College's Criminal Justice Day on Thursday, November 15th from 11 a.m. — 2 p.m. at the College.

Organized by the Criminal Justice Department of the College, the day's activities will focus on career options and opportunities in law enforcement, corrections, civil rights and much more. Some of the agencies which will be represented include: the Attorney General's Office, the Department of Probation and Parole, County Sheriff's Offices, Department of Youth Services, Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, the FBI, the Boston Police Department, Boston Housing Authority, the CIA, Harvard University Police, U.S. Customs Service, U.S. Border Patrol and Immigration Service and the New York City Police Department, as well as a host of private security agencies.

In addition to career information displays, representatives from these various agencies will be available to meet one-on-one with students, sharing their experiences in the field, and directing students toward their career goals.

Criminal Justice Day will also serve as a resource for those already in the field with extensive listings of available positions, upcoming examinations and student internship opportunities.

Supplementing the wealth of information available at Criminal Justice Day will be equipment displays and demonstrations. The Massachusetts State Police will land a helicopter at the College and the Boston Police Department will demonstrate their SWAT team's rescue techniques, hostage recovery and repelling.

A police Command Center, stocked with state-of-the-art weapons and technical equipment, Demonstrations of crowd and riot control techniques and a simulated K-9 team drug-bomb search are also planned.

CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE

Two workshops on the prevention and detection of Child Sexual Abuse will be sponsored and presented by the North Shore Regional Family Planning Council, Inc. The workshops will be held at the Collidge Middle School, 89 Birch Meadow Drive, Reading, on November 13 and 15, at 7:30 p.m.

Workshops and discussion will be presented by staff health educators under the direction of North Shore Regional Family Planning Council, Inc. Focus of the program will be detection, reporting and prevention of child sexual abuse. There will be a brief description of educational programs and materials available to inform and educate — not alarm — the public about sexual abuse.

The program on Tuesday, November 13, will be directed towards adults who have direct or indirect contact with preschool, elementary and younger middle school children and will include the film Better Safe Than Sorry, II. The film has been highly acclaimed for its sensitivity and directness

Retired Persons meet

The next meeting of the American Association of Retired Persons, Chapter No. 1124, will be held on Friday, Nov. 9 at Melrose Highlands Congregational Church, Franklin Street, Melrose at 1:30 p.m. This meeting is open not only to members but also to retirees over 50 years of age and residing in surrounding towns. Come, meet a friend.

The program will be musical and presented by Ned Orlando and a friend, both members of the 9:29ers, a well-known banjo band from Wakefield. Recognition will be given to some of our members who have served us long and well.

The meeting for Oct. 12 was well attended. President Signe Bickell welcomed members and guests. The Invocation was given by Father Flynn of St. Patrick's Church in Stoneham. The "Pledge of Allegiance" was given followed by the singing of "God Bless America" with Aimee Lush at the piano. A business meeting followed with reports given by Caroline Norton, Secretary and Katherine Kennedy, treasurer.

William Canady, of the Melrose Council of Aging, mentioned programs for the Melrose group, flu shots, nursing home workshops, and all about nursing homes with experts there.

Signe Bickell, president, reminded the members of the Christmas luncheon on Dec. 14 at the Towne Lyne House in Lynnfield. Tickets will be available at the November meeting.

Bessie McLellan, membership chairman, announced that the current membership is now 312 members including the 20 new members since the last meeting. Gladys Jackson, of the Remembrance Committee, has sent out cards to ill members and asked anyone who knows of members ill, hospitalized or incapacitated to please let her know.

Bill Keating, of the Legislative Committee, had several topics in his talk: vote, notify legislators of your wishes, and if any questions, consult your local security office.

Elinor Spurr was in charge of refreshments and had many goodies from the kitchen, thanks to donations from many members. Foster Ford reported that there will be a trip to the Museum of Fine Arts in January, date to be announced later.

Marguerite Laffoly read a letter of thanks for the donation of old glasses that had been collected by the Chapter. They also collect Campbell Soup labels for the Beverly School for the Blind. All contributions of labels and glasses are gratefully accepted. It was also mentioned that 12,000 volunteer hours have been contributed by the Melrose Chapter.

On the program for this evening, Leonard Gebhard introduced the speaker, Mr. Daniel Tobin, AARP State Legislative Committee member from Malden. He brought us up to date on senior citizen programs.

The change and social upheaval in the 1960's was the subject of an hour long documentary aptly called "Change, Change." It is the 19th and final documentary in the acclaimed "A Walk Through the 20th Century" series with Bill Moyers. The series, made possible by a grant from Chevron, has been nominated for four Emmy Awards.

tivity — and tried to cut down on slackness in the work force.

"She launched India's first satellite, and tried to bring Western technology to the nation."

One of the things George said that he and his wife Kathy soon found they had in common was "we both don't like politics."

"The politicians really irritated me in India," he added. "In India, most of the politicians are really corrupt. I think they feel it's o.k. to be corrupt — and the common attitude of the people there is that if you're a politician you will become rich very easily."

"Conditions are so crowded and people are so illiterate that it's very easy for the politicians to manipulate public opinion."

Turning to a happier topic, George said living in America is a "much, much better state of affairs. Here, you have a consumers' market. If something is wrong with a product — you take it back for repair or replacement."

"In India it's a producers' market. If the product doesn't work and you try to take it back, the response is 'Tough bananas,' or something of the sort."

"In America, everything is available in plenty. Americans cannot appreciate the plenty that they have. But because I come from India I can appreciate it."

Other things George appreciates in America are certain foods, especially pizza and lasagna — if the spices are extra, extra hot — and he is also very fond of ham and bacon, which are very rare in India. To obtain either, he said his family has to go 80 miles — once a year.

As for Indian food, he waxed enthusiastic about "ghee," made by boiling butter with "drumstick pods," long, slender beans like those from a catalpa tree. The drumstick tree is much-favored, by the way, by tent caterpillars — and caterpillars give George the creeps (he said he hated the movie, "Squirm"), but you have to use drumstick pods to form the ghee.

After boiling the butter and the drumstick pods, you skim off the froth — and the remainder is a delicious, highly prized, aromatic base for cooking or frying with sugar or flour to make a variety of dishes.

George reserves an even stronger enthusiasm for the friendliness of the people of America. He said he was really surprised at the smiles and greetings he received from virtually everybody when he first arrived:

"People didn't smile as much in India — they were more reserved. But in Wakefield, the joggers always smile and say 'Hi,' when we're walking around Lake Quannapowitt."

I think the greatest gift Americans have is that here you can have your dreams come true — if you are willing to work — and if you have sufficient determination and perseverance.

"That doesn't mean it's easy. It's not. You've GOT to persevere. But if you do, I think you can make it."

From S-1

Roving

According to a pamphlet handed to each driver detained at the roadblock, if you are arrested, "you will be detained by the police and read your rights, your car will be towed away, you will be taken in a police cruiser to the police station, and you will be asked to take a Breathalyzer test."

One of the officers on duty at the roadblock informed me that if you refuse to take the Breathalyzer test, your driver's license will be automatically suspended for ninety days.

"If the test registers over .05," the pamphlet continues, "you will be held but there will be no presumption that you were driving under the influence."

However, if the test registers .10 or over, you will be held and there will be a presumption that you were driving under the influence. You will then be kept in the police lockup until you are bailed out.

Sgt. Sartori notes that these steps are just the beginning of your troubles. The biggest blow comes when you learn how much all this will cost you.

"The towing of your car, the storage fee, the Bail Magistrate's fee, a defense attorney, the minimum fine, the insurance assessment, and the loss of safe driver credit for three years adds up to nearly twenty-three hundred dollars," remarked another of the more than two dozen officers at the roadblock scene. That doesn't include the $480 cost of attending an alcohol education program, which is almost always ordered by the court.

Sartori added: "You take a big risk driving and drinking these days. If you're going to be out drinking, make sure there's a designated driver who stays sober. We'll all be a lot safer if you do."

A handful of final thoughts: There's a movement underway by authors who feel they should be paid a fee whenever their books are borrowed from libraries. Apparently this idea has already been put into effect in some foreign countries, with moderate success. The money comes from general tax revenues, and helps to keep writers from living in poverty.

There is the possibility that in a couple of years we will no longer see fifty and one hundred dollar bills. Why? Because the government may recall all of them in a move to put drug dealers out of business.

The government seems to think that if drug deals have to be made with truckloads of money rather than brief cases full of it, then drug deals will eventually dry up.

I recently heard that a group of college students wanted to vote on the right to have suicide pills available to them at the college in case of a nuclear attack. My reaction to that is this: What if the attack turns out to be false, and a major chunk of the student population has already swallowed the pills?

While flirting with the subject of higher education, a Harvard study has determined that caffeine may be useful someday as a pesticide. Now isn't that a comforting thought, as you sit with a cup of coffee in hand, reading this column?

"Oh seekers, Love is Truth, beseeching Truth, and your Truth in seeking and receiving and protecting Love shall determine its behaviour." — Kahlil Gibran.

Make it a good week.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

From time immemorial, Emperors, Royalty or Potentates wanted their names and likenesses perpetuated. The best sculptors, artists and craftsmen were summoned and commissioned to execute a statue, bust or plaque. Because of its durability, marble was generally chosen, thereby ensuring that the subject's image would endure for centuries.

Everyone makes mistakes, even the masters. A carpenter (of which I am one), uses plastic, wood or putty to hide his errors. A sculptor would use a special kind of wax (that would eventually melt or fall off) whenever his chisel slipped (perhaps knocking off an ear lobe, the tip of a nose or part of a chin) off the image he was trying to create. The Latin word for 'wax' is 'cerus.' When the statue or bust was completed, the Emperor, or King, would demand the word of the sculptor that his likeness contained "no flaws or imperfections." The craftsman, who was proud of his work, would voluntarily chisel his name and then add the word 'sincerus' (without wax). He would do that only if in fact there wasn't any wax anywhere in his work.

The English word, 'sincerely,' over our signatures tells the recipients of our letters, cards or notes that the words, thoughts and sentiments written in our correspondence are 'sincere,' — genuine and honest with love and compassion for all. Except for a grammatical error here and there, the thoughts in Woodchips are genuine, honest, and above all else, 'sincere.'

My wife Kathy bought a rocking chair at Paul's Furniture in Reading. Paul Doucette is the owner and Emery Graves the genial manager. My wife couldn't ask for a more comfortable chair but there is one problem — she seldom has the chance to sit in it because I'm always in it. One evening I had to get up and answer the phone so she jumped at the chance to sit in it. When I hung up the phone I asked her to get up. Kathy looked at me and said, "Woodchipper, Whistler's Mother was 'framed' but you are off your 'rocker' if you think you will sit in this chair tonight." I wonder if Paul's sells rocking chairs with a padlock?

I will never get tired of writing Woodchips as long as there are wonderful people like Jim Amundsen, manager of the farm stand and nursery at Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Garden Center in Winchester. Jim told me that his mother, Patricia, of Woburn, is an ardent reader of this column as are some of her neighbors. Jim told me that on a cloudy, dismal, rainy day — but somehow his words were like the sun's rays bursting through to brighten up my day.

Just mention 'mushrooms' and it scares me. I recall my father being 'wild' about the darn things. He'd pick a basketful every weekend and my dear mother would cook them. My father would wait until she ate some mushrooms and an hour later he'd devour a plate full of them. My mother was wise to my father's bravery — she substituted store-bought mushrooms for herself and my father would eat the ones he had picked in the woods. So he wasn't as smart as the former Maureen O'Donnell, my mother.

Brenda Pilcher is a beautiful young lady with an associates degree in interior design. After working in that field for a year, and later with a furniture manufacturer, Brenda is now with a real estate firm in Wilmington.

My wife is always practicing interior decorating — I have black and blue marks to prove it. I keep bumping into bureaus, chairs and tables. I get up at five in the morning and it's dark — yesterday I nearly fell out of my bedroom window because I forgot that Kathy had decided to move the bed against a window wall.

Tom Burke works for a first-class clothing store in Burlington. Tom said, "You look like a 'medium.' " "Nope," I said, "I don't tell fortunes." "Well," he continued, "how about a suit with a belt in the back?" "The suit, yes," I said, "but the belt in the back, no. It still hurts from falling out of bed yesterday morning."

Most mothers these days give their youngsters plenty of B1 and B2, but not enough of 'B Quiet!'

Any young ladies who hope to become models must learn to walk with 'poise, balance and grace.' Some place a book on their heads and walk without it falling off. You can practice all you want — some of you will never achieve or match the majestic, graceful walk of the farm women who worked in the fields on the farms in Woburn, Wilmington and Tewksbury. After a hard day's work, they would walk a mile or two home with a basket of vegetables balanced on their heads for their families — and love in their hearts for everyone.

I called the Daniel's School in Woburn requesting they send a brochure of their courses. Linda, the secretary to Daniel Baczowski, was very accommodating, explaining the different courses. I have to improve my spelling, grammar and typing because my copy must be a nightmare for those wonderful ladies who edit it.

I have met many people in the Middlesex East area, but one of the happiest — with a friendly smile and a warm handshake — is Mrs. Corrine DiCicco of Winchester. Her effervescent 'joie de vivre' was readily apparent to me even from across a crowded room, so that I asked her cousin, Aldo Catalucci, to introduce me to this lovely lady.

Robert and Gerri Rowe of Wakefield are new readers of Woodchips. They live in Wakefield — Bob drives for Federal Express and Gerri is employed in a camera store.

Photographers wouldn't have any problem taking beautiful pictures of Sandy and Linda LaChance, of Pinewood Garden Center; Nicole Higden, Woburn Times delivery girl in Burlington; Laura Burns of the Hon. Mayor Rabbitt's office in Woburn; and Clare of Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Nursery in Winchester.

The state of Maine has 3,500 miles of coastline.

A Silent Tribute

On a beautiful June morning in 1900, a country doctor delivered a fine baby boy. As he headed his horse leisurely for home, he basked in the warm sunshine and reflected on the thought of the successful birth.

Back at the farmhouse where the baby had been born, the parents admired their newborn son and thanked God for his safe arrival. The parents were trying to decide on a name for the child, when three white butterflies flew in through the open window, circled the room and flew out again. The infant's mother and father paid no special attention to this occurrence, and after continued discussion, finally chose the name of John for their son.

The boy brought nothing but happiness and joy to his parents throughout his childhood. And in his seventeenth year, as his proud parents watched from their seats in the town park, John received his high school diploma. As the mayor handed John the piece of parchment, three white butterflies flew over the stage.

Following the completion of the graduation ceremonies,

John, with mixed emotions, told his parents he had enlisted in the army. After he had received his basic training, he was sent overseas to join the forces stationed in France.

Three months later, a telegram arrived at the farmhouse — the War Department informed John's parents that he was missing in action. After writing letters of inquiry and waiting many months for more information, their only response was a tortuous silence.

The war finally came to an end, and after the treaties were signed, John's mother and father decided to visit the area in France where John had spent his last days. They visited Flanders Field, made famous by John McCrae's poem, and later went to Paris. In Paris, they paid their respects at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. As they stood in front of the monument saying a silent prayer for the soul of the soldier interred there, three white butterflies flew over the tomb, hovered over it for a moment in salute, and then flew on...

Battle of the air waves rages in Boston

by Rochelle Flynn

AOR, AC, CHR.

Sound like a secret code? Well, it's not. These letters are simply the acronyms passed around in the radio business for Album Oriented Radio (AOR), Adult Contemporary (AC), and Contemporary Hit Radio (CHR), the latter being the trendy new weapon in the battle of the FM airwaves.

Actually, saying that there is a battle raging amongst Boston's popular radio stations is an understatement. There is a full-fledged war broiling in this competitive market. In an effort to be ranked as one of the top stations, and therefore receive some of the abundant advertising money floating around, many stations think little of changing their format if it will change their ranking in the Arbitron rating books.

Arbitron Ratings Company is a New York based, quantitative ratings agency that breaks down the listening audience of the radio stations. Arbitron publishes quarterly books of its findings, with each book being read more reverently than the bible by advertising agencies, and therefore taken very seriously by the stations.

Although nearly every station in the Boston area claims to be the "number one station," the spokespeople usually aren't stretching the truth, because each station appeals to a certain type of audience, and five different stations can be number one in five different demographic areas, if the statistics are broken down enough.

"There is no such thing as a totally mass appeal station," says Bill Campbell, general manager at WMJX (Magic). "Kids who graduated from high school in the '60s listened to one station, and adults listened to the another."

"Now, people 45 and younger are used to radio and use it differently (than their parents did). If someone wants news, they will listen to an all news station, or if they want just music, then they will find a station that plays just music," Campbell says.

And you can be sure that stations are catering to the fickle tastes of their listening audiences.

When WCOZ began slipping in the ratings, something was done about it: the format was changed from AOR to CHR. But when an advertising campaign was launched that proved ineffectual, the station changed its call letters to WZOU (Zoo Radio) and completely replaced the on-air staff with disc jockeys whose personalities are being stressed.

With the new CHR format, the station "will be looking for 18 to 54 demographics, as opposed to the 18 to 34 demographics that WCOZ went after," says general sales manager, Bill Wayland.

As Lisa Fell, the vice president in charge of advertising at WXKS (Kiss 108) explains it, CHR stations play the songs that are in the top 40 on the charts, and disc jockey's personalities are stressed. Fell says that as far as WXKS is concerned, the station is CHR with an urban flair. "Kiss has a sleek image, show-bizzy and entertaining. It is also a personality stressed station which allows for audience involvement. If an audience is waiting and listening attentively to a personality, then they are probably going to listen and be responsive to commercials," she says.

Fell says that WXKS's use of the CHR format slowly evolved from the disco format the station employed at its conception six years ago. She said that it is important to be number one in the market that the station is programming to, and in the case of WXKS, that is a listening audience aged 18 to 34, with the station being the most successful with women aged 18 to 24, and ranked second over all in the Boston area.

For people who want a slower pace, less chatter, and more music than many FM stations play, they tune to WMJX. And WMJX welcomes the audience with a quiet dignity not usually seen in some of the frantic antics employed by disc jockeys, especially during the morning hours, to lure in listeners.

Deviating slightly from CHR, Campbell describes WMJX's format as contemporary music for grown-ups. Oldies are mixed in with current songs in what is an intensely music-oriented station. "WMJX personalities work very hard to emphasize their music, whereas most radio stations work very hard to emphasize themselves," says Campbell.

The station features block programming, a format that began approximately 30 years ago when there wasn't any pre-planned evening programming, and disc jockeys played (mostly) romantic music at night that was contemporary, but not overwhelming. WMJX has resurrected this idea through their "Bedtime Magic" program, which, according to Campbell, is "music to make out by." WMJX also updated their format this past summer by "playing fresher music. We got rid of Barry Manilow," says Campbell.

One station that has refused so far to bend to the trendy CHR format, and yet remains the current station in the Boston area, is WBCN, which employs basically an AOR format, although current hits are also aired.

WBCN ranks highest among an 18 to 34-year-old, mostly male, listening audience. And music director Bob Krane says that the station has very few older listeners, but says that is indicative of rock-and-roll, not

Cash and cabbages appeal to listeners

Dump the dressing, cabbage batch adoptions and lunch time parodies of popular songs are just some of the off-the-wall antics carried on by Boston area disc jockeys in an effort to attract listeners.

WROR's disc jockey Joe Cortese explains that the dump the dressing promotion began when the Russians boycotted the Olympics, so WROR gave away tickets to a catered party in which each person had to bring Russian dressing that was then dumped into Boston Harbor where tea was dumped 200 years ago.

Cortese also says that WROR has saner and more useful promotions for its listeners. The station will pay a listener's rent or mortgage if they call at the correct time, which is designated by a disc jockey, and repeats the "phrase that pays," which is broadcast over the morning show, Monday through Friday.

Matt Segal from WXKS instituted the cabbage batch adoptions when cabbage patch dolls were all the rage. People had to agree that they would not boil or shred their cabbages, and he received so much favorable reaction to the spoof that Segal took 200 cabbages out to the KISS van to give to listeners. Segal says the cabbages went quickly, but their odor remained in the van for a long time.

Aside from such crazy promotions, WXKS also has one of the most lucrative contests around, known as the KISS Call. A person who knows the correct amount of money when called by a disc jockey wins approximately $10,000. And, in order to find out the correct amount, you have to listen to the station. Disc jockeys call people who have sent in their phone numbers, or are listed in the phone book.

Segal says that cash giveaways are "a new thing in broadcasting. Years ago radio stations used to give away prizes such as cars, but now people want the cash," says Segal.

Ken Shelton on WBCN says that the biggest promotion the station has held recently was the fireworks display this past Labor Day weekend in Boston, when approximately a quarter of a million people went to watch. But the station does do many things to attract the attention of its listeners, such as the lunchtime songs.

"Every day at lunch we reproduce a song using current hits. We wipe out the vocals and people at the station imitate singers. For instance, we changed Bruce Springsteen's 'Dancin' in the Dark,' to 'Lunchin' in the Park,'" says Shelton.

WHTT's Dick Gunton says that the station flew 170 people to Washington for Michael Jackson's Victory Tour concert, and Nancy Quill, a disc jockey at WMJX says that the station recently gave away tickets to a magic show with David Copperfield, which ties in with the station's nickname of MAGIC. And WZOU's John "Rock and Roll" Anthony said that the station recently held a ZOO coming-out party, and is co-sponsoring a Run for Liberty in mid-October, with all proceeds going to help restore the Statue of Liberty.

Well, dressing dumps and cabbage batch adoptions are all fun, but no one ever did more to attract listeners to a radio station than Wolfman Jack did 20 years ago with this immortal thought: "Get naked and put your hand on the radio."

Paloma Picasso-- designer, perfumiere

By NANCY HALLIDAY

Petite, dark and sparkling, Paloma Picasso is far more beautiful than her press photos would have you imagine.

Visiting Jordan Marsh at the Burlington Mall recently on a personal appearance tour in conjunction with the new perfume which bears her name, "Paloma Picasso," she projected an image both continental and vulnerable.

She speaks softly, with a pronounced European lilt, gracious and charming in her manner. Sipping Mouton Cadet, she chatted about what was important to her, and also, what was not.

Wearing a treasure of a pastel tweed Chanel suit, Picasso rather dazzled in some of the jewelry which she designs for Tiffany and Company.

A thick twisting of pearls caught to a cabuchon jeweled clasp, encircled her neckline, and she wore her famous large, diamond-edged gold earrings; famous because she designed them with a blue gemstone in one, and a green gem in the other. Expensive whimsey!

Paloma Picasso is the daughter of Pablo Picasso who died at 91 in 1973.

Painter, sculptor, graphic artist and ceramicist, he was the foremost figure in twentieth century art.

In addition to the over $20 million she inherited from her father, she inherited his artistic sensibilities, but wanted to be different; definitely not an artist. Her artistic heritage has evolved in other media.

Paloma Picasso studied jewelry design in Greece, and later worked with her friend, Yves Saint Laurent. She received international recognition in 1980 with an exclusive contract with Tiffany and Company, for whom she designs luxuriously bold and colorful jewelry, which bears her signature flare for the dramatic.

As Picasso waved her hand to make a point, the diamond watch on her wrist (her own design for Tiffany, of course) twinkled in the soft light. Double rounds of diamonds framed the face, and round and baquette diamonds marked the hours. As if this was not enough true glitter, it was held by a wide diamond bracelet. And none of these diamonds was small!

Paloma Picasso's link to perfumery is also a heritage. Her grandfather, Emile Gilot, founded Parfums Gilot in Paris and produced scents for the elegant ladies of the Twenties.

It is that Art Deco era which inspired the packaging for Paloma Picasso perfume, a frosted glass flacon in a circle of sculpted French glass, with her signature in gold. The red and black are colors that Paloma has made her own, using their dramatic impact, knowing wisely that they compliment her coloring and style.

Paloma Picasso Parfum is a lush floral fragrance, woody and amber, with jasmine and Bulgarian rose. It's distinctive, like its namesake.

Picasso brings the same sense of originality and adventure to fashion — or rather — to style.

She has a sharp sense of style. "Style is more long lasting than fashion which has to change every six months to be new and exciting. Style outlasts fads and trends. It is classic," she says.

With all this creativity surrounding her, the logical progression would seem to be fashion designing.

"Never," she exclaimed with emphasis.

"Never! Nothing at this time would persuade me to enter the field of couture fashion although many of my friends have done this," she smiles. "But you know, it is very demanding. At least twice a year, a new collection must be brought out, and the pressure is unbelievable."

Her own sense of style is original and dramatic.

In the clothes she wears she is flamboyantly elegant and tastefully original. And she's always ahead of her time. She was the inspiration for an entire collection by French couturier Yves Saint Laurent. She loves to dress for the occasion, or to suit her whims, or often, for her own amusement.

It was a cold and blustery night, with rain blowing sideways across the parking lot outside Jordan Marsh. Not a great night for shopping. Very few cars were parked; everyone seemed to be home watching T.V.

But when Paloma Picasso appeared at the Jordan's counter to sign her perfume package, and chat with those who came to purchase her lovely scent, at least twenty-five women gathered around her. It's your guess where they all came from, but there they were, all eager to meet and talk to this fascinating, dynamic personality, who chatted and smiled with ease, even with strangers.

Real people are real people, everytime!

IT'S A REAL PLEASURE to make personal appearances when the product is your own. Here Paloma Picasso autographs a photo for a customer at Jordan Marsh.

League of Women Voters

Your political questions answered

Q. How does the electoral college work?

A. The Constitution authorizes each state to appoint a number of electors equal to the number of representatives plus senators that the state has in Congress, plus three for the District of Columbia. On election day, when voters in each state go to the polls, each one votes for the slate of presidential electors who are pledged to support the candidate the voter prefers. The U. S. Constitution allows electors to vote for whomever they choose; however, that seldom happens. These slates have been selected by political parties, through conventions, committees or primaries. In some states, both candidates and electors are identified on the ballot. The winning slate of electors meets in each state on the Monday following the second Wednesday in December, a date set by federal law. Two ballots are taken, with each elector casting one vote for the President and one for the Vice-President. Results of this vote in each state are sent to Congress to be counted on January 6, in the presence of the newly elected Senate and House of Representatives. If one candidate for the office of President (and Vice-President) gets 270 — a majority of the total of 538 electors — a President has been elected.

Q. What has happened to the bill that would prohibit children from being housed on adult wards in Massachusetts mental institutions?

A. The bill which would separate everyone under the age of 22 from adult wards is referred to as Senate Bill 1991, and it is in the Ways and Means Committee. To express your opinion about this bill, you can write or call your state Senator of call 722-1481, the Senate Ways and Means Committee.

Q. Does the state publish any information that I can use to objectively compare one town to another before I move?

A. Monographs about all 351 towns in Massachusetts are being updated at this time. Write to the Division of Economic Development, Department of Commerce, 100 Cambridge St., Boston, MA 02202, or call 727-3206, and specify which community's monographs you would like. There is no charge. Q. What is the National Committee for Citizens in Education?

A. The National Committee for Citizens in Education is a nonprofit organization committed to improving the quality of public education by increasing parent participation in the school system. NCCE operates a toll-free hot line (1-800-NETWORK) to provide information and assistance to parents and citizens with questions.

the station. "Older people don't listen to Van Halen or U2," says Krane. "they like Frank Sinatra."

Older listeners also enjoy soft music, news and talk shows, many of which are found on AM stations.

Krane says that when the station did start to slip in the ratings, WBCN stuck to its guns, and "proved that they were 'the rock and roll station in Boston.'"

Ron Piro, the sales manager at WHTT (Hit Radio), says that although Arbitron ratings do count for a lot, "one book doesn't mean that much in radio, as statistics wobble, meaning that there is nothing you can grasp as to why a listening audience went up or down. You have to look at a trend of several ratings books," says Piro.

And the station apparently did just that, for in March of 1983, it changed from WEEI

(Soft Rock) to WHTT. Piro explains it thusly: "Soft rock days had come and gone. For example: Olivia Newton John stopped singing pop rock, got 'physical' and had a 'heart attack.'"

Piro says that when WHTT emerged, it went from 12th place in the ratings to first the following summer, and had a great influence on the Boston market, which was not playing many hits at the time. The station is currently ranked an overall fifth, but first amongst teenagers aged 12 to 17.

WROR, which is popular amongst 18 to 44-year-olds, is especially favored by people aged 25 to 34. And, although sales research development manager Linda Gregory says that "the station is not generally geared for Yuppies (Young, upwardly-mobile professionals), a lot of them do listen."

WROR is a CHR station that emphasizes disc jockeys and, despite Gregory's hesitation to categorize the station, it does appeal to the Yuppy crowd (see sidebar). After all, Yuppies have a lot of disposable income, and, as Gregory says, "the real ad money is directed to the 25 to 54-year-old market, so the smart thing to do is to format a station to attract those listeners."

Marine art celebrated

The first American exhibition of the newest marine prints of celebrated artist John Stobart opened at the John Stobart Gallery on November 2. Eight new prints will be on location at the Stobart Gallery on Lewis Wharf for the entire month of November.

Stobart, an Englishman now living in Boston, is an internationally acclaimed Marine artist whose works provide a historical living record of ports and harbors that were never painted. His original painting, "CINCINNATI BY MOONLIGHT", recently sold for $120,000, the highest price ever paid for a painting by a living marine artist.

The John Stobart Gallery is the only art gallery in Boston to specialize in Marine art. For further information, call 227-6868.

Dawson Bridge Studio moves to Reading

The Studio, which has been located in the Cummings Park in Woburn, has moved to a new location at the Pearl Street School in Reading. The Studio, which has been at the Woburn site for ten years, is directed by master bridge players Dennis and Jackie Dawson of Reading. The studio has attracted many residents of surrounding communities to its games of "duplicate bridge", so-called because each table plays the same hands, thus matching the skill of the players under controlled conditions, and greatly heightening the competitive spirit. For those more interested in recreation than competition, the Dawson Studio also offers social bridge and supervised play.

All are welcome to visit the Studio's new home, located in a completely-refurbished part of the school which is located on Pearl Street, off Salem St. (Route 128), just a few minutes from Reading Square. There is ample off-street parking, and no-smoking facilities will be available at the new site.

Big, brassy and brilliant

That's the thrilling feeling you expect from a first-rate marching band. And that's what people will get when ULowell's famous Marching Chiefs play a special scholarship benefit concert for the public at the Durgin Arts Center at the University's south campus on Saturday, November 17, at 8 PM. During the Nov. 17 concert, the 80-member Chiefs band will feature a program of favorite marches, show routines and color guard displays for an evening of spine-tingling excitement that is special to band music.

Tickets for the Scholarship Fund concert on Nov. 17, are $5 for general admission and are available at the ULowell Foundation office at Room 116, Durgin Arts Center, Univ. of Lowell. For information, call 459-0350.

Christmas at Castle Hill

"Christmas Spirits", a staged reading of Charles Dickens' "The Story of the Goblins Who Stole a Sexton", from the "Pickwick Papers" will take place Sunday, November 25 at the Great House at Castle Hill in Ipswich. Fireside narration by Patrick Swanson accompanied by members of the vocal ensemble Mistral and professional actors recreates the flavor of a Victorian Christmas. A five-course luncheon will precede the performance featuring festive, holiday fare. The holiday luncheon will begin at 12 Noon and the reading will be staged at 2 PM. For further information and reservations, call 356-4070.

Marching, marine or bridge with a little Christmas preview thrown - COMING ATTRACTIONS finds its way into a lot of strange places. But we are always looking for more and must rely on any and all events of interest to all that you know about. If that is the case, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. We are willing to get involved with the greatest diversity of events possible.

NEMH CT scanner cuts costs, time

With the installation of a new $500,000 CT scanner New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham now offers the area's first in house, 24-hour full-body scanning service.

The CT scanner is a diagnostic tool which allows doctors to see cross-sectional segments of any portion of a patient's head or body in fine detail. It is especially useful in the detection and definition of cancerous tumors.

According to NEMH Radiology Department Director Milton Hinkle, the new machine will eliminate the previous 1-3 day wait for scanning services required by several area hospitals which share a mobile scanner.
